IN FOND REMEMBRANCE OF
Dorothy Ann Leab
(1935-1952)

Wherever Dot went she greeted everyone with a cheerful "Hello" and a smile.

Dot was always kind and thoughtful. She loved horses and enjoyed reading. She could always tell us about a magnificent horse that she had seen or of a good book she had read.

To everyone she knew -- to her class of 1953 -- and to Monson High School, she contributed a warm and generous share of sunshine.

CLASS PROPHECY

Charlotte Arventos: In twenty years we see Charlotte as private secretary in Haley's Grain Store.

Robert Beaulieu: Bob is now Dean at Anapolis Academy. He and his secretary, Ruth, are still seen together frequently.

Muriel Benoit: Muriel is now playing opposite Mario Lanza in her biggest hit. Her director, Mr. Foisy, keeps extremely close tabs on her.

Barbara Joyce Braskie: Joyce is the manager of the De Maio Used Car Lot in England. She can't get used to the fact that the cars aren't "broken" because the steering wheel is on the right side.

Henry Cady: Foote is co-manager of the First National in Palmer. He now owns a 1973 Cadillac convertible, and he's still transporting his women admirerers from place to place.

Bernard Cantwell: Bernie is now coaching Notre Dame's basketball team. He has gained almost ninety pounds and his hair has thinned out quite a bit, but he still has that "sweet" smile.

Mary Chappell: Mary is teaching Home Economics at Monson High. She has recently received an honorable discharge from the WAC's.

Marcia Comfort: Marcia is Harry Truman's private nurse. Poor Harry has just passed his eighty-ninth birthday and is beginning to feel his years.

William Daly: Bill is now Editor of the Palmer Journal. He graduated from the University of Massachusetts with the highest honors anyone has ever received.

Leonard Farquhar: Len is chief cook and bottle washer for Uncle Sam. He liked the Air Force and decided to make a career of the service.

Shirley Gustafson: Shirley is secretary for her old friend Bill Anderson who is about ready to retire and go to California. She is now typing seventy words a minute and is quite sure of a job when Mr. Anderson leaves.

Alyce Hopfe: Alyce is with T.W.A. and has been to all parts of the world. Her main ambition now is to return to Monson and lead a quiet life.

Mary Jurczyk: Mary is teaching German at the University of Massachusetts. At the moment she is saving her money to buy a new cycle; her old one is missing one of its three wheels.

Arlene Lavallee: Arlene is Mrs. Lamson's "right hand man." She distributes candy, keeps the records of all incoming and outgoing money, and as an added gesture takes Mrs. Lamson home every night after school.

Shirley LaMontagne: Shirl is working in the telephone office in the Bronx. Her line is kept quite busy with calls from "old friends" from Monson.

Gabriel Lecours: Gabe is selling groceries to his ex-buddies in the service. He owns a fruit and vegetable stand on the corner of Hollywood and Vine.

James McCarron: Jimmy is designing women's hats. He has set up a small shop on Fifth Avenue in New York and all the seniors stop to see him on their way home from Washington.

Shirley McEwen: Shirl is the new owner of what is now Brown's Drug Store. She and Mike get along fine, but he still can't get used to taking orders from a woman.

Edna Milde: Edna is one of the top astronomers of our time and can be seen with her husband (on clear nights) star gazing.

Robert Moriarty: Bud is inventing new types of fertilizers. He raises mink in his spare time. Strangely enough he never married. He has millions in the bank, however, and that's what he's always wanted.

Barbara Morrow: Barb is headmistress of Monson Academy. The school is now co-educational, and Barbara has a nerve-wracking time trying to keep things under control.

Stanley Nietupski: Stan has taken Fred Astaire's place in the movies and he and Ginger Rogers (old as she is) are tops in the entertainment world.

Bonnie O'Connell: Bonnie is the supervisor of nurses at the Mercy Hospital in Springfield. Her patients adore her, but they all agree that it's best to hide under the covers when she gets mad!

Patricia Partelo: Pat is giving horseback riding lessons on her farm in Arizona. She finally got her wish--three hundred Palaminos.

Lawrence Peck: Larry is driving a bulldozer for Bill Jurczyk. He found the Air Force interesting, but a bit too calm.

Josephine Plescia: Jo has taken Doctor Davy's place. She has moved her office to Harrison Avenue so she won't have so far to walk in the morning.

Faye Plumley: Faye is now working for the F.B.I. She has solved many crimes and has captured hundreds of criminals. Faye is considered by every one indispensable to her country.

Charles Poulin: Charlie is running a rest home for the aged. Many of his old classmates may be found from time to time gathered around a large table reminiscing.

Donna Purington: Donna is packing meat in the Acme across the street from her house. When things are quiet one can hear her gentle voice bellowing "Why Don't You Believe Me?" She could never understand why it wasn't first on the Hit Parade for more than eighteen years.

Gordon Robinson: Gordie is still working at Joe's. When he got out of the Navy he realized that Joe needed him more than the Navy did so he began where he left off fifteen years ago.

Joyceann Sasseville: Joyce is teaching Bunny Levitt how to shoot foul shots. She now holds the world's record -- 7,800,101 shots and two misses.

Marilin Slabey: Marilin is hunting elephants in Africa. She and Josephine had a terrible fight the day after graduation and vowed never to speak to each other again. It was rather hard to live up to this agreement since they were both in Monson, so Marilin decided to move out of town.

Marilyn Young: Marl is now installing electric water heaters. Television reached the point where antennas were no longer necessary, so Marl had to change her occupation. She also does advertising work for Harvey Goldstein. Harvey developed larangitis and needed help desperately.

FIRST GRADE
MECHANIC
STREET SCHOOL

CLASS HISTORY

At last the day came. Thirty very frightened children walked up the stairs and into the first grade room. At Mechanic Street, Miss Kennedy greeted all of us with a big smile and did her best to make us feel at home.

Lennie Farquhar and Dobbie Knight wasted no time-almost immediately they were throwing small pegs at one another. These pegs were given to us to keep us occupied while Miss Kennedy was trying to "sort out" odd children who had come late and had already started to miss mommy.

Marvin Lyons was constantly taking the girls' pegs and coloring in their blocks. He also enjoyed pulling the girls' hair.

Shirley Teale had an unfortunate start, and by the third week of school was staying afternoons until five to learn her lessons. By the end of the year she was our star pupil.

Second grade began a little better. We all knew each other, and it wasn't long before Lennie and Dobbie were at it again. "Dog and the Bone" was a favorite game among the students.

The girls really scared everyone when they walked onto the ice behind the mill. Half the mill employees and the teachers from South Main Street tried desperately to rescue them while the boys stood by throwing snowballs at them.

The reading class was divided into three groups, the Faires, the Brownies, and the Sunbeams. Were we proud of ourselves if we managed to get into the

SOUTH MAIN STREET SCHOOL

Fairies group!

We all enjoyed playing hop-scotch and taking turns on the swings. The teachers had a difficult task keeping the classes in their own sections of the playground.

We were sure that we had dare-devils for classmates. The boys were forever climbing up the "dog houses."

Third grade was quite calm compared to the previous two. We felt that we were finally growing up. There was a great triangle with Bob Jameson, Charlotte Arventos, and Shirley McEwen taking the spotlight. No one ever did find out who won!

Patty Partelo had a little difficulty when she walked up to Miss Crowley's desk to hand in some overdue homework. One of the naughty boys tickled her and poor Pat fell backwards into the wastebasket. Was her dignity hurt. Alfred Leroux had his share of troubles. They started when he bit Miss Makepeace, was reprimanded, and went up and banged his head against the blackboard.

Fourth grade was one which will never be forgotten by any of us, especially Jo Plescia, who had finally met her match in Mrs. Sherman. She was constantly being made to put on a baby bonnet and go from room to room to show that she had not grown up yet. Mary Jurczyk was up to her ears in trouble when, just to prove that she could read, she kicked at Mrs. Osborn, who was wearing a sign which read "Kick Me" which someone had pinned on her.

Mrs. Osborn made us clean house every morning. We dusted the desks and were very proud if we did so well that we received a star after our name.

Shirley Teale and Marilin Slabey were chosen to ring the bells. On one occasion they thought they'd fool Mrs. Sherman and hold the bell until she came into the office. They were literally expelled from the office when she finally did arrive.

Fifth Grade was our last year in the elementary building and most of us were glad to be leaving the "baby school" and were mighty proud of ourselves. Mary and Evelyn spent most of their time exchanging jewelry during geography class. Everett, who was out of the room more than he was in, decided that he had been asked to leave once too often so he stood outside the door and threw everyone's boots inside.

On Friday afternoons everyone wanted to put on an entertainment for the teachers. Barb Morrow and Pat Partelo sang the same song every week until finally they were asked to volunteer only if no one else would.

We at last met our other classmates when the South Main Street pupils and Mechanic Street pupils entered the sixth grade at State Street School.

Everyone got along surprisingly well, and we quickly learned our way around the school, although the girls had difficulty at first finding their way about, particularly in the basement, as there seemed to be an abundance of corners and secret doors.

Every Friday afternoon we would have a spelling bee in Mrs. Lovell's room. It was quite a task and honor to be one of the last to be seated.

We were made to stay after school for two hours on April Fool's Day. A few of us had the "bright" idea of deliberately kicking the ball into the river and staying out all afternoon to look for it. Mrs. Norcross found us in the swamp, and we were firmly told to get back to our room.

Next, as seventh graders, we entered the high school building where we were viewed as the babies of the school.

Shirley McEwen was the envy of all the girls because Jackie Perry and Victor Rivard were always fighting over her.

We must have been somewhat of a problem because Miss Thompson neglected to take us on a class picnic.

We all enjoyed playing science baseball with Miss Hynes. Unexpectly she would throw the ball to someone and we would start the big game.

Eighth grade was unusually calm for the most part. We behaved ourselves very well, and by the end of the year we thought we knew every song that had been written. Miss

Hynes taught us her version of "Shortenin' Bread" and to this day no one has forgotten it.

Ninth grade couldn't come fast enough. When it finally did arrive we were all looking forward to initiation. None of us would admit it, and we tried to act as though we didn't want to be initiated; but I think everyone of us did. There was more than one sore nose and scraped knee that week from pushing pennies. Warren Mizen and Bill Daly were "stars" in Latin, and Miss Sutcliffe was constantly called upon for extra help.

Pat Partelo and Shirl McEwen were selected as cheerleaders.

When our sophomore year began, many of us were learning to speak French. The noises which came forth from Miss Malonis's room could hardly be called words, but we really tried.

Our Sophomore Hop was a big success. The girls especially had loads of fun making all that food. Our class won the "Oscar" for the one-act play contest. What exuberance! Shouting was heard for at least ten minutes after Mr. Holley made the announcement.

That same year someone put a fish head in the old drawing room desk. Miss Sutcliffe never found it, and did it smell!

We reached the "almost there" mark when we entered our junior year. The prom was the big event, and it took considerable time and energy to decorate the gym. We chose black and white for our color scheme, and the gym really looked beautiful when we had finished.

The biggest day of the year was the day we received our class rings. The room was so noisy that people stopped in the halls to see what was wrong.

Now the final year has arrived and we are anticipating graduation. At the moment of this writing, the main topic of conversation is "Washington." What are you wearing? How many suitcases are you taking? Whom are you rooming with? These are the big questions.

Back in September we enjoyed initiating the freshman. We hope that they had as much fun as we did.

It is difficult to believe that twelve years have gone. In spite of our looking forward to finishing school I'm sure that we're all going to miss the wonderful times we've had at Monson High School.

SOCCER

Our record for the season was nine victories, two defeats, and one tie. The victories were against Commerce, 5-2; Ludlow, 1-0; West Springfield, 2-1; University of Massachusetts Freshmen, 2-1; Classical, 3-2; Cathedral, 2-0; 3-1, and 4-1; and Pomfret 4-1. Our defeats were by Classical, 2-1, and Holyoke, in the tournament, 2-1. The tie was with West Springfield, 2-2.

The team had such standouts as Len Farquhar, Ralph Letendre, Rick Kibbe, Carl Bristol, and Ed Harvey on the forward line and Bob Beaulieu, Rog Haley, Norm Wytas, Frank Santucci, and Gordie Moore in the backfield. Bernie Cantwell did an excellent job in the goal for the Monsonites.

Seniors leaving the team through graduation are Len Farquhar, Bob Beaulieu, and Bernie Cantwell. These three, together with the rest of the seniors, sincerely hope for a successful season next year when Rick Kibbe will act as captain.
